Professional wizards need mood lighting, too. Kandela is a magic wand with a classy faux ivory handle. With a swish of your wand, the candle lights up, casting romantic light around the room.

Despite looking just like a regular flickering candle, the Kandela Magic Candle is actually illuminated by two LEDs. Naked flames and melted wax? Not on your Voldemort. Better still, you switch it on and off by swishing the accompanying wand. Now that's magic! If flicking's not your thing you can even blow it out.

With a swish of your wand, the candle lights up, casting romantic light around the room. This magical feat can be performed at up to a distance of four large paces, which we figure is the distance from the candle to your favorite comfy chair. Most importantly, it'll impress that cutie from the newspaper that you've been trying to woo.
